Colors:

Each color gets their self-esteem in different ways. There is no right or wrong color combination; one color is not better than another. We are just different and accepting these differences without judgment is the key in reducing the stress in our lives; in the workplace and at home.

"Colors brings out people's natural strengths, whatever age, culture or gender. Understanding Colors helps us to understand ourselves and get along with each other. It helps with decision making, sorts out conflicts, builds cooperation and productivity. It's even fun!"

Customer Service Training:

The Customer Service Training helps businesses increase employee's customer service skills by taking their new found knowledge of Colors and applying it to your business. Learn how to bring your understanding of temperament and personality to the most important person...The Customer!

Essential Skills Upgrade:

Essential skills are an important factor that helps to maintain employment. According to a survey of local employers, the top two reasons for terminating workers are attendance issues and problems with attitude; these are both essential skills. Daniel Smith, CEO of Bay Area Hospital, stated that "90% of the time when they fire an employee, poor essential skills is the reason". Many employee's annual evaluations are heavily based on essential skill performance. Because of the importance of essential skills in the workplace, this two-part training is the ideal choice for businesses.
